A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH & A WORLD OF PAIN

AUSTRALIAN CELEBRITY OSHER GUNSBERG INVESTIGATES HOW NEW SCIENCE, INNOVATIVE THINKING AND TECHNOLOGY ARE HELPING PREVENT SUICIDE AND CHRONIC PAIN.

The world is experiencing many different epidemics. Countries around the world are facing nothing short of a national crisis. Yet the experts agree that there are ways we can be better dealing with the issues. In this first episode, A Matter of Life and Death, and through the prism of Osher Günsberg's own mental health experience, he'll investigate why suicide rates remain high in Australia, and feature what is being done to mitigate the problem. The documentary will focus on solutions and what Australia and Australians can do to reduce the national suicide rate. In fact, the mission statement of this film is to go beyond the informative. Its charter is to be part of the solution and actually help stop suicide by offering hope and some practical answers.

In episode two, A World of Pain, Osher Günsberg spearheads a very personal investigation into the causes of chronic and persistent pain, meet the individuals and families it affects, and reveal what surprising new science, medications and alternative therapies are being used to treat and manage it. Beyond conventional treatment, he'll also delve into emerging alternative therapies, and seek an answer to an intriguing question: could the so-called 'fine line between pleasure and pain' hold the key to helping us better understand, treat and manage pain.
